Set the Scene

Provide context for your story. Mention the time, place, and the people involved. This helps the reader visualize the setting and understand the background.

State the Main Point

End the introduction with a thesis statement that summarizes the core of your narrative. It should hint at the lesson or significance of the experience without giving away all details.

Example of an Introduction:

"Have you ever faced a moment that completely changed your perspective? I had such an experience during my summer volunteering trip, where I learned the true meaning of compassion and resilience. That day not only transformed how I see the world but also shaped who I am today."

- Share relevant background details.
- Use sensory details to immerse the reader.

Example Points:
